

Madison College Public Meeting
6:00 PM, Tuesday, 12 April
Madison College - Downtown Campus

The Madison neighborhoods deemed to have significant barriers to opportunity are also neighborhoods with high concentrations of poverty.

When low-income single parents live in these neighborhoods, they lack access to networks of higher educated and higher paid adults who have advice and leads on how to pursue college, job training and jobs that can improve their income and advance their career.

Two of the most acute low-opportunity neighborhoods in our community are in south Madison and southwest Madison.

According to the Community Advocates Public Policy Institute in Milwaukee, "work is the primary way out of poverty." And to make the transition from unemployment to employment, affordable, accessible education is not an option but an obligation.

Madison College President, Jack Daniel's has announced a bold educational plan that will provide affordable and accessible education to people of color who reside in South Madison and Southwest Madison.

At the 6:00 PM, Tuesday, 12 April, Madison College Downtown Education Center, located at 211 North Carroll Street, Room D- 240, important topics such as; educational resources needed to generate & sustain livable wage jobs, educational access required to eliminate skills gaps based on diverse backgrounds/ income and the College's role in meeting the District's job needs will be addressed.

All members of our Community are asked to attend the 12 April meeting and all subsequent upcoming meetings regarding this important initiative for people of color.

On April 12, please share your presence and support of efforts to move our people forward. Please click here to register.
